

Heather Angels Wild Kew

Wildlife photographer Heather Angel spent an entire year photographing Kew Gardens, focusing not on the familiar flowers and trees but on the remarkable array of animals that make the plants of Kew their homes. Through all seasons, Angels photographs show how Kew offers a haven to wildlife, from baby birds in the spring to the buzzing bees of summer, the parakeets of autumn to the courting swans of winter. The resulting book is a beautiful celebration of Kews place in the natural world and of the many surprises awaiting the patient, attentive visitor.
